Risk factors

LUX-PENSION Money Market is characterized by an almost complete absence of investment volatility, which allows for the preservation of invested capital, even in the short term, in exchange for a limited long-term appreciation potential of the net asset value (NAV) per share compared to other compartments of LUX-PENSION.

The investor is not exposed to currency risk, as investments are exclusively denominated in EUR. As the sub-fund may invest a minority portion in emerging markets, investing in the sub-fund may entail a higher degree of risk due to the political and economic conditions in those markets, which may affect the value of investments.
